The NSW Police Force's 'Our Focus, Our Future' identifies the delivery of professional policing services as a key organisational objective. This aims to maintain community confidence, deliver respectful and consistent customer service, protect, support, and refer victims to appropriate services; and respond swiftly and professionally to all calls for assistance.

OUR FOCUS OUR FUTURE

CONNECTED WORKFORCE CONNECTED COMMUNITY

Our Vision:
A safer NSW

Our Purpose:
Working with the community to reduce violence, crime and fear

Commissioner's Message:

Our Focus, Our Future forms part of my vision for our organisation moving forward. As the world and communities across NSW evolve, we also need a plan for the future that enables us to adapt to a complex and changing operating environment.

The communities and people we serve face a wide range of social problems, community safety issues, and new and emerging forms of crime. We live in a globally connected society, where cyber-enabled crimes make geographic boundaries irrelevant. In this operating environment, we need to continually enhance our policing responses to traditional, and emerging crime types and demands for service.

Our culture in the NSWPF is to place People First. We will serve our people and the community through developing trust and pride in our work, where we model professionalism, respect, empathy and humility.

Together, we will shape a connected workforce and connected community, inspiring our people while remaining authentic to our rich history.

How the community perceives their police force is critical to safeguarding the community. How we engage the community, respond to and support victims, and progress investigations will build community confidence in policing and victim outcomes.

Underpinning this is our Statement of Values which are the guiding principles of the NSW Police Force and underpin the conduct of all NSW Police Force employees and I expect the behaviour and actions of all staff to align with these values.

The NSW Police Force is a world-class police service and I am confident that it will continue to serve the people of NSW well into the future. Success involves all of us working together.

As your Commissioner, I look forward to working with you over the next five years.

Karen Webb APM

Definition

NSW Police Customers

The NSW Police Force has a diverse range of customers that engage the police for many different reasons. The following groups are considered customers of the NSW Police Force: victims, witnesses, the community, internal and external colleagues, other NSW Government agencies, non-government organisations, suppliers, and vendors.

Arrested persons and suspects for crime are exempt and will be dealt with in accordance with the Law Enforcement (Powers and Responsibilities) Act 2002 (LEPRA) policies and procedures.

Our commitment is to ensure that the NSW Police Force:

- Provides its customers quality service on each interaction.
- Provides service delivery that is aligned to the six core NSW Government Customer Commitments.
- Continually assesses service delivery and levels of customer satisfaction.
- Acts with empathy and compassion, treating our vulnerable customers with respect and fairness.
- Establishes clear communication channels that provide information and instruction during a customer's engagement with the NSW Police Force.
- Aims to increase public confidence through effective and efficient service delivery to all people and communities.

NSW Government Customer Framework

The NSW Government will put the customer at the centre of everything that it does to achieve high quality customer outcomes and world-leading customer experiences

Research into leading global organisations shows that improved customer experiences can be achieved by focusing on five key areas:

1. Understand customer needs based on data and insights
2. Prioritise based on what creates the most impact for customers
3. Deliver a seamless and high quality experience to customers
4. Engage with customers meaningfully on priorities for the future
5. Embed a customer service culture across the public service

The NSW Police Force Customer Service Strategy is underpinned by the NSW Government Customer Framework and Customer Commitments.

The principles of good customer experience (Customer Commitments) apply to the interactions between regulators and regulated entities; with the community being the primary customer.

Customer experiences directly impact the delivery of outcomes that the NSW Government has committed to the people of NSW.

Customers may not directly interact with NSW Police Force but instead receive the benefits of policy and regulation such as safe neighbourhoods.

Customer service effectiveness continuously improves when services are designed and refined using data, customer and behavioural insights.

The NSW Police Force will use assessment tools including the results of the National Survey of Community Satisfaction with Policing (NSCSP), People Matter Employee Survey, Adult Sexual Assault survey, the Fifth Quadrant survey measuring interaction via the Police Assistance Line and Community Portal, customer service related complaint data and the reinvigorated mystery shopper program to achieve this.

The focus is to deliver a service to our community including victims of serious crime, persons at risk or in need of further support and care and reluctant complainants not limited to sexual violence and domestic and family violence (including coercive control).

NSW Government Customer Commitments

How indicators will be measured

What we will do

Embed a customer-centric approach to policing and deliver the Commissioner's priority to place people first.

The Customer Service Action Plan defines the future implementation of actions from 2024 – 2026.

How we will do this

Use data from assessment tools to identify trends and inform preventative initiatives.

How we will measure success

Key activities:

1. Remain committed to the National Survey of Community Satisfaction with Policing (NSCSP) to monitor levels of satisfaction with policing services and feelings of public safety.
2. Implement an enhanced mystery shopper style program.
3. Collate and assess data and maintain accurate, accessible statistics and reports.
4. Report on community engagement through corporate systems (Engage).
5. Deliver training and educate and enhance the skills of employees to meet responsibilities under the Charter of Victims Rights (7-day victim follow ups).
6. Recognise outstanding achievements (i.e. Police Officer of the Year Awards) and acknowledge the importance of implementing accountability measures for leaders and senior NSWPF employees to demonstrate our commitment to excellent customer service (such as reporting performance on proposed performance templates).
7. Introduce quarterly Customer Service portfolio holder forums.
8. Demonstrate a customer focussed culture at all levels of leadership.

How we will get there

The strategy includes the initiatives that aim to bring about positive change.

The roadmap lists the three phases: reinvigorate, stabilise – integrate and refine – grow.

The focus will be on establishing and enlivening our approach to customer service delivery, focussing on conduct, behaviour, and actions.

We will embed principles and use the assessment tools to ensure our commitment to customer service is measured and performance is recognised.

We will explore new opportunities to support continual growth and assessment.

By doing so, we will continue to meet the evolving needs of communities and the people we serve.
